

Social Media Tips for Fulbrighters

Use #Fulbright on your posts.

This hashtag allows us to connect and engage with your Fulbright-related social media activity. When you use #Fulbright, we can easily find your stories online.

A good photo goes a long way.

Your posts should include a striking, well-lit photo that provides a glimpse into the life of a Fulbrighter. This is especially true for Instagram and Facebook, but it's also a good idea to utilize visuals on other platforms.

Use tags and mention others.

In addition to using #Fulbright, tagging the program in your post will get our direct attention, and can lead to your photo or story being featured on our accounts. Consider also tagging your local Fulbright commission and/or U.S. Embassy.

Maintain a high standard.

Participants in all U.S. Department of State-sponsored academic exchange programs have full artistic freedom to write, publish, and create, but are also expected to maintain a standard of conduct and integrity in line with the spirit and intent of the Fulbright Program - to increase mutual understanding between the people of the U.S. and the people of other countries. Please refrain from overtly political content. All Fulbright-related content on personal accounts must contain a disclaimer stating that your views are your own and are not representative of the U.S. government.

Tell your story.

We want you to use social media on the Fulbright Program as a storyteller and ambassador of the program. Show us your research, your classroom, and the friends you've made. Show us holiday celebrations abroad and your new home. Each Fulbright journey looks different - show us yours.
