OPPORTUNITIES FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS, SCHOLARS, AND INSTITUTIONS

Fulbright U.S. Student Program, in partnership with more than 140 countries worldwide, offers opportunities in all academic disciplines to passionate and accomplished graduating college seniors, graduate students and Ph.D. candidates, and young professionals from all backgrounds. Program participants pursue graduate study, conduct research, or teach English abroad.

Fulbright-Hays Programs, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education, provide overseas funding to current and prospective U.S. educators to participate in advanced overseas study and research. There are three programs:

- Doctoral Dissertation Research Abroad, sending doctoral students abroad for periods of six to twelve months for dissertation research
- Group Projects Abroad, supporting overseas projects in training, research, and curriculum development in modern foreign languages and area studies
- Seminars Abroad providing short-term study and travel seminars abroad for U.S. educators in the social sciences and humanities for the purpose of improving their understanding of the peoples and cultures of other countries.

The Fulbright U.S. Scholar Program, the largest fellowship program for U.S. scholars, offers over 800 awards each year to more than 130 countries. The program provides U.S. academics in all disciplines, as well as administrators and professionals the opportunity to research, teach, conduct professional projects, or attend seminars abroad.

The Fulbright Specialist Program provides a unique opportunity for U.S. academics (administrators, faculty, and staff) and other professionals to engage in short-term (2-6 week), project-based exchanges at host institutions around the globe. Specialists are competitively selected to join the Fulbright Specialist Roster based on their knowledge and ability to make a significant contribution to projects overseas. Individuals approved to join the roster are then eligible to be matched with projects at foreign host institutions from over 150 countries.

Fulbright institution-focused programs are aimed at bringing foreign scholars and teachers to U.S. institutions to globalize campuses and curricula:

- Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence Program (S-I-R) helps U.S. institutions host a foreign scholar to teach courses or assist in curriculum development
- Fulbright Outreach Lecturing Fund (OLF) provides funding for campuses to host Fulbright Visiting Scholars, already in the United States, for short-term speaking engagements
- Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant Program (FLTA) brings educators from abroad to provide teaching assistance in more than 30 languages to hundreds of U.S. institutions of higher education

The Fulbright Program is sponsored by the U.S. Department of State with funding provided by the U.S. Government.
